CHILDHOOD,

A sweetness in the morning air
A witching laughter in the woods,
A group of maidens everywhere,
With glowing cheeks and flowing hair
And not a sorrow or a care
Within their dainty hoods!

An agile fleetness in their limbs,
A tint of morning on their brows,
Their postures full of girlish whims,
No dappled fawn so lightly kims
Along the silver lakelet brims,
Beneath the drippling boughs,

They are a rushless, romping rout,
Marauders of each nook and glen,
They disappear with song and shout,
They beat the forests all about,
And ferret timid flowers out
Then come in glee again.

Such knots of flowers and knots of girls,
With beauty in their busy eyes,
One plaits a cluster with her curls,
Another in her finger twirls,
A nosegay rich with liquid pearls,
A tell tale in disguise,

Oh girlhood is a guerdon fair
That still is left a recreant race,
There's witchery in its wayward air
Sprinkling the sunshine everywhere
Alas that later years impair
Its simple guileless grace.

'Edward Everett.—This distinguished orator and statesman has been invited by the South-western Agricultural and Mechanical Association to visit Louisville early next October, and make the annual address before that association on the occasion of its fair. Mr. Everett has for years been desiring to visit the great west, and it is thought will most probably accept the invitation. The Ohio Valley will give him the warmest kind of a welcome, and send greetings back to old Massachusetts, such as will do her heart good.'—Illustrated News.

Senator Gwin.—The Pacific (San Francisco) publishes a pungent address to this functionary, and calls upon him to resign. We copy the closing paragraph,

'Sir, there is but one way you can save what honor you may now have, and perchance regain what you have lost—Resign and submit yourself to a new election. You have dared for honor's sake to face a leaden bullet; dare now for honor's sake to face a paper ballot. This last would test your bravery. It might prove you to be the man we once took you to be. 'MANY CITIZENS—
—many more than it would make you comfortable to know.'

Senator Gwin will probably not resign, deeming a 'bird in the hand worth two in the bush.' Will he be permitted to hold his seat as Senator!'

AMONG THE ROMANS. &C.

They tell a good story of Lorenzo Dow, or a perambulating preacher of his 'school,' to the effect that riding once in a stage coach, on his way to an appointment, he fell in company with some wild young blades, who were led from his eccentric appearance and manner, to imagine that he was a proper subject for their jokes and raillery. He at once humored their design, by affecting silliness, and making the most absurd and senseless remarks. Upon arriving at the place where he was to stop, they ascertained who their butt was, and began to apologize, observing, in extenuation of their rudeness, that his own conversation had misled them. 'O,' said he, 'that's my way. I always try to accommodate myself to the company I am in, and when I am among fools I talk foolish,'

THREE WOLVES AND A LAMB.
AN ITALIAN STORY.

Three robbers were walking by the roadside one evening, after a day of profitless anxiety.

'It is a pity,' said one of them, 'that we can do no better than this. I am unwilling to let a day pass without some gain.'

'There is a chance,' said another: and as they looked up they saw on the brow of the hill before them a man riding on a donkey, and by a string leading a sheep with a bell attached to its neck.

'I will steal that sheep,' said the first of the robbers.

'You cannot,' said the second, 'do you not perceive the cord and the bell?'

'I see them,' said the first, 'but they present no obstacle to me. I'll steal that sheep.'

'If you do,' said the second, 'I'll steal the donkey.'

'What!' said the third, 'steal a man's donkey from udder him! You cannot'

'You will soon know better, said the second.

'If you do, said the third, I'll steal all the clothes the man has upon him or for feit my pretensions to professional excellence.'

'Bah!' said the other two, 'you will attempt what you cannot accomplish.'

'We will see,' said the third.

The unsuspecting man was plodding along without thoughts of injury, when the first robber approached and cut the the cord and bell from the sheep's neck and attached the bell to the donkey's tail where the jingle continued to be heard.

In due time the man looked behind to observe the condition of his sheep and to his horror found it was gone! In dismay and distress he appealed to the first person he met, and asked if he had seen any one with a sheep.

'Yes,' replied the person, 'I saw a man clambering down the hill side with such a prize, but I thought it was his own.'

'Hold my donkey for a moment,' said the man, and as the person did so, he went in the wrong direction in pursuit of the robber and his sheep. Finding however, that his pursuit was in vain, he returned, tired and breathless, to where he had left his donkey, But lo! it was not there! Sheep and donkey were stolen from him! Sad and perplexed, he sat down to reflect and to grieve over his losses; but soon he heard the wailing of some one in distress: He listened for a moment. and the sound became more audible: 'What is this?' he said, Can any one be more miserable than I?' But the cry of anguish became louder, and still louder. He hastened to the place whence it proceeded, and there beheld a man weeping as though there was no comfort for him,

'What is this my friend?' said he—'How are you afflicted?'

'Alas!' said the man, 'I am ruined forever!'

'Ruined!' said he, 'how are you ruined?'

'I came to this well for a draught of water,' he replied, 'and while I drank I let drop a costly gem, and it lies beneath the water.'

'Is that all?' said he,

'All!' exclaimed the other, 'It is of great worth!

'So it may be,' said the honest man—'but I have lost my sheep and donkey which I was unwillingly about to sell at the next market town that I might pay off some pressing debts, yet I do not idly bewail my loss,'

'What is that loss,' the other replied—compared to my loss of a gem worth thousands of ducats, and without which it would cost me my life to return to the king my master, who sent me with it as a gift to a royal friend beyond the seas?'

'Why do you not go down into the water and recover it?' asked the man.

'Alas,' said the other, I cannot swim, I would only drown.

'Then I will go down for you,' said the good honest man.

'Will you?' exclaimed the other. Do so, and here are four golden pieces for your pains—more than the sum of all your losses—and if you regain my treasure, I shall owe you my gratitude.'

The honest man received the pieces of gold and placed them in his pocket, and took off his clothes and descended into the water. But after long and careful search he came up out of the well to ask the stranger on which side his gem had fallen, when lo, HE WAS GONE, and the poor countryman was without sheep, donkey, or clothing—there all alone by the brink of a deep well—and the robbers were all far away with the trophies of the artful roguery.—Republican, (Pa.)

A DISCOVERY.

A certain deacon in one of our Massachusetts towns, who was a very zealous advocate for the cause of temperance, some years since, one hot summer day, employed a carpenter to make some alterations in his parlor. In repairing a corner of the mopeboard near the fire place, it was found necessary to remove the fireboard—when lo, a 'mare's nest' was brought to light, which astonished the workmen most marvelously. A brace of decanters, sundry junk bottles—all containing 'something to take'—a pitcher and tumblers were cosily reposing there in snug quarters. The joiner, with wonder stricken countenance, ran to the proprietor with the intelligence.

'Well I declare,' exclaimed the deacon, that is curious surely. It must be that old Captain B. left those things there when he occupied the premises, thirty years since.'

'Perhaps he did,' returned the discoverer, 'but deacon, that ice in the pitcher must have been well congealed to have remained solid so long a time.'

'Daddy,' said a young hopeful, 'let's go up to the nine pin alley and roll.'

'Roll, boy, what do you know about rolling?'

'Me know about it. Why I can roll your darned old eyes out in less than ten minutes.' Smart boy, that.

THE POPULAR EDUCATOR.

Each number of the Educator will contain articles in several of the departments. The lessons in Geography will be accompanied with maps engraved on copper; and the Lessons in every other department which can admit of it will be illustrated by diagrams engravings and drawings, nothing which artistic skill can do, to embellish the several subjects, will be neglected.

The Popular Educator has received an encouraging welcome from the people throughout the length and breadth of the United States. They have clearly given it a most cordial reception into the great family of periodicals. The publisher feels that he has met one of the public wants. So great has been the demand for the first number, that he has been obliged to go to press with a third edition, which is now ready.

THE WEATHER.

We should like to learn the secret of writing for a newspaper, either political or literary, such weather as this. For our part we never pretended to anything above mediocrity, and hardly that. A statement of facts is all we aim at, with a brief analysis—as for genius and all the powers of reason they are dead, common sense is asleep, our pen has dropped down—too sleepy to find it. Our Page is asleep on the floor, woke him who can—our rollers all run away, and keeps Sally running after them,—our Compositor, (quite a Beau) keeps a moving over our head, but when evening comes, he is wide awake, preparing for a walk with the ladies. Well, well, something must happen.

EDUCATION OF YOUNG MEN FOR THE MINISTRY.

All that we have: besides a host of collectors, tractors, distributors, and God knows how many others, the General Post Office might well be said to be their organ, in fact, it was to them a mint; their frauds on the Post Office from what came to light, amounted to more than they made by all their money making schemes. To judge by what came to light, every Post Office yielded them $66,000, at least taking one of the most remote and least productive of the Post Offices where the amount of every article was specified, which was to be free of charge: From disclosures made of these tremendous frauds, what we saw ourselves, while on our travels, nearly three years, generally sitting by the stove in rooms where the mail was opened, and the fights between the drivers, and the impious wretches, when the former would pitch the boxes of tracts out in the yard, sometimes the fights would happen between the agents and the passengers, meantime the Post Offices were piled up to the ceiling with these boxes.

The consequence of all this was the drivers or the Post Masters, perhaps both were dismissed through the influence of these wicked men. One of their 'weaker vessels,' as Mr. Everett would call it, Since he has raised our mettle, we will give him enough of the Pilgrims. But to the point. We will disclose the frauds of these Pilgrims. Let Mr Everett show the good they have done.

The name of their principal agents for the General Post Office, will be found signed below. The Post master was named Steele, and his office at Helena, Arkansas, it was then a Territory.

"Communication from the Post Office at Helena, A. T,

TO THE EDITOR,

'Sir, Will you be pleased to give this communication a place in your next paper.

New York, February 16, 1834.

Dear Sir,

By return of mail you will confer a favor by sending to us the names of the Ministers of the Gospel of different denominations, Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, and the names of several influential, public spirited and benevolent persons, that we may transmit to your office, for each name you furnish us, one number of a paper containing a circular we wish to send through the State,

Very respectfully yours,
J. N. BOLLES,
J, A, WHITEMARSH,
J, L, BURROWS,

To Messrs Bolles, Whitemarsh, Burrows,

GENTLEMEN; I have viewed and reviewed, considered, and reconsidered the above card, and for the soul of me I cannot determine what it really means, nor what can be your object. If you are in reality cross-bearing Christians according to your intimation—determined to make every thing subservient to your notions of the Christians duties of man—then are you the more to be feared, inasmuch as you are aiming at such a long pull, strong pull, and to pull the 'Ministers of the Gospel of different denominations, Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, and several influential, public spirited and benevolent persons,' all together. Let me ask you in candor, Do you really mean to send through the United States—for you know we are here in a Territorial form of government—a paper containing a CIRCULAR! What does that Circular contain gentlemen, that you wish to send through the United States? It may be some pious treason, for aught I know, and to be candid with you, I feel confident that it is an attempt to subvert our Religious Liberty: Is it not an appeal to fanaticism, to rally everywhere and take us by surprise. To me it has that appearance. Only look at it! You wish the Post Masters every where to send you the names of 'the Ministers of the Gospel of different Denominations.'

Nothing in the world gentlemen, is wanting in that member of the sentence but the definite article, which I make no doubt you intend to have understood, for it is not by any means bad grammar as it stands. Let me supply it and then see how it will read. 'You will confer a favor by sending to us the names of the Ministers of the Gospel of THE different denominations.' This, gentlemen, you see sweeps all before it. Then it is the names of the Ministers of all the denominations, yes, and the Exhorters, Elders, Deacons, influential, public spirited and benevolent persons of all the denominations that you wish me to send you the names of.

'Gentlemen, it seems to me that if you had fully considered what you were doing, you would not have sent such a card to the Post Masters, as it is reasonable to presume you have done throughout the United States. The Post Offices were increased at a ratio of about 362 in the four years ending 31st Dec. 1830. Take that for the ratio and add thrice 362 which is 1086 to 8450, which was the aggregate at that time, and we should have had 9536 Post Offices for you to send the above card to. For the sake of doing your pious treason full justice, say that 1536 of these offices were so remote that you did not think fit to send your card to the 'P. M.s' at them, still there are 8000 to whom it is reasonable to presume that you have sent the card. The postage on them cannot amount to less than 20 cents on an average, which makes the sum of one thousand six hundred dollars! Look at it gentlemen. One thousand six hundred dollars you have defrauded the Government out of in your attempt to subvert our Religious Liberty, and in all probability, to unite the Church and State.

Gentlemen, look at this matter—the American people are not prepared to become the slaves of fanaticism any more than they are to monarchy—they love their Civil and Religious Liberty too well to be cajoled out of it by any 'Circular' you can transmit. As to the names you wish sent, thank God we have a number of good pious Christian preachers, who are not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, and they preach Christ Jesus and him crucified to sinners; but I confess I am greatly deceived in them if they would countenance your treasonable circular. Nay they glory in the freedom of our institutions, and manifest no disposition to do any thing that might subvert our Liberty—they are sober orderly men, and use their best endeavors to influence the will of their fellow men by convincing their judgment of the necessity of faith, hope, and charity, without caring anything about what may be called the immaterialities—they make no attempts at your fanatical, overrighteous zeal, to compel men to come in.'

See the amount—

For Bible Societies the sum of	$5 600
For Missionary Societies to Indians,	5,600
For Tract Societies,	5,600
For Temperance Societies,	5,600
For Sunday School Societies,	5 600
For Abolition societies,	5,600
For Emancipation societies,	5,600
For Colonization societies,	5,600
For Foreign Missionary societies,	5,600
For other societies of Deaf, Dumb Lame, Halt, Blind, Infant &c:	10,000
Total,	$66,000

Now gentlemen, you know these figures will not lie, however you may get out of this palpable fraud. That you may not find the Postmasters generally subservient to your object, I most sincerely hope.

I am gentlemen, your most unwavering opponent,

JOHN STEELE, P. M.

This is the foundation of the New School Presbyterian Church which Mr. Everett says is to overrun the whole world. It seems in a fair way for it, a church founded on crime of the blackest dye, murders, rapine and treason—encouraged by such men as Mr. Everett. There is danger, it has no part in the Christian church; it is founded on Peace, and the love of God, who 'took away the sins of the world.

From the National Era.

PENNSYLVANIA.

'The State Convention, which met at Harrisburg, June 1, adopted the following resolutions—

The Free Democracy of Pennsylvania having assembled in State Convention, for the purpose of perfecting their organization and making nominations for State officers, feel it incumbent upon them to make a public declaration of the principles they propose to advocate, and the work they propose to accomplish; Therefore,

Resolved, That all men are born free and equal, and are endowed by their Creator with an inalienable and indefeasible right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, hence Slavery is a sin against God and a crime against man.

Resolved, That it is the mission of the Free Democracy to secure to all the enjoyment of their inalienable rights, by the impartial application to public affairs, of the principles contained in the Declaration of Independence, which require equality in rights and strict justice to all.

Resolved, That as Slavery is aggressive, and can only live by continued encroachments upon free territory, it becomes the duty and imperative necessity of the laboring classes in this country to work earnestly with the Free Democracy to arrest its further spread; for the same despotism that places its foot upon the neck of the black man, will when its interest dictates, attempt to reduce the white laborer to a condition like that of the slave: and it becomes an act of self defence to himself, and a duty to his prosperity, to relieve them of so dangerous and evil a burden.

Resolved, That the Constitution of the United States, ordained to form a more perfect union, to establish justice and secure the blessings of liberty, expressly denies to the General Government all power to deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law—and therefore the Government, having no more power to make a slave than to make a king, and no more power to establish Slavery than to establish Monarchy, should at once proceed to relieve itself from all responsibility for the existence of Slavery, wherever it possesses constitutional power to legislate for its extinction."

The Free Democracy is still for war: 'Wonder if peace would not suit them best, they lay claim to the character of christians, but 'the tree is known by the fruit.' They have the old story that 'that very is a sin against God, and a crime against man,' then punish crime by law, and as to sin, leave that to be settled between themselves and their God. We should like to know at what time the Almighty surrendered His Exclusive Power to pardon sinners, or pass sentence upon them.

☞ The following piece of poetry is pretty good, and will apply well to the fast driving in this place.

If a buggy meet a buggy
Coming down the street,
Is it right to run together
When these buggies meet.
Every driver has his failings,
'They're but men at last,'
But coming up or going down,
Should they drive so fast?

When a buggy meets a buggy
Should these buggies race?
And run over civil footmen
In a public place?
Let the driver speed like lightning
Lashing neck and flank,
But let them mind that human flesh
Ain't covered o'er with plank.

There is a man living in the backwoods who, being invited to a New Year's dinner, ate so much bear's meat, that he went home and hugged his wife, a thing he had never been guilty of before.

Mrs. Partington says that her son Ike is getting so daring that he will be killed in one of his narrow escapes.

Simon says there is no place like home, except the home of the girl you're courting. Cute chap; that Simon.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1853
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.
THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY

Over Thirty-one years have elapsed since the Saturday Evening Post began its weekly round of blended instruction and amusement: and never, in all that period, was its success so marked as at the present moment. Possessing undeniably the largest circulation, by many thousands, of any paper of its class in the Union, its subscribers have the best of reasons for believing that it stands upon a permanent basis, and that they will receive the full value of every dollar intrusted to its publishers. In announcing some of our preparations for the coming year, we may begin by stating our continued connection with Mrs. Southworth, a writer who, in vigor and fertility of genius, is not surpassed by any, male or female, in the Union. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, a lady whom it would be almost superfluous to praise, in view of the general popularity of such tales as 'The Mob Cap,' 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc. also is enrolled among our contributors

We shall shortly begin the publication of a story entitled

CLARA MORELAND

By Emerson Bennett, author of 'Viola,' 'Prairie Flower,' 'Bandits of the Osage,' etc. And at the opening of the ensuing year we design commencing the publication of the following Novelet,

MISS THUSA'S SPINNING-WHEEL,

By Mrs. Lee Hentz, of Florida, author of 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc.

This novelet we design following by a story entitled,

A STRAY PATCH FROM AUNT HANNAH'S QUILT.

By Mrs. Frances D. Gage, of Ohio, widely known as the author of some admirably written and very effective household poems, sketches, etc. After this we expect to be able to commence

THE LOST HEIRESS:
A STORY OF HOWLET HALL.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, author of 'The Curse of Clifton,' 'Virginia and Magdalene,' 'Shannondale,' the Deserted Wife,

In addition to these and other Original tales, involving a large expenditure of money we shall lay before our readers as heretofore choice tales, sketches, essays, narratives, etc. from the English magazines, such as have given the Post a name for the excellence of its selections,

Engravings—In the way of engravings we present at least two weekly, one of an instructive and the other of a humorous character,

☞ Of course we shall maintain for the Post the character it has acquired of being a strictly moral paper, not ridiculously squeamish and straight-laced, but really and truly moral; such as may be taken into the family circle without fear. Advertisements of an improper character shall be, as heretofore, rigorously excluded.

CHEAP POSTAGE.

The postage on the Post to any part of the United States, when paid quarterly in advance, is now only 26 cents a year. And we trust that the public generally will show their appreciation of this commendable reduction of postage, by largely increasing the number of papers taken at the various offices—that thus there may be no falling off in the revenue of the Post office department. This will insure a continuance of the present reduced rates.

TERMS.

The terms of the Post are Two Dollars if paid in advance, 3,00, if not paid in advance. For five dollars in advance, one copy will be sent, three years. We continue the following low terms for Clubs—to be sent, in the city, to one address, and, in the country, to one Post Office:

Something New in the Literary World.
A MAMMOTH WEEKLY OF THE FIRST ORDER.

Those desirous of procuring a weekly paper conducted with the highest regard for correct taste, blending instruction with amusement, one that cannot fail to prove an agreeable companion to the Mechanic, Farmer, Merchant, and Professional Man—also to the Maid or Matron, are informed that the fifth volume of AMERICA'S OWN commenced on the 11th of Sept. 1852, on which occasion the paper was enlarged and appeared in a new dress, by far excelling anything in the way of a paper ever got out either in Europe or America. The publishers do not feel disposed to enumerate the many superior points this paper possesses over all others, but merely give the opinion of disinterested persons whose extensive knowledge enables them to judge correctly of its merits.

We consider it the best family newspaper published.—Louisville Varieties.

It is a high toned and interesting Journal of Literature. Its editors are men of sterling ability.—George Lippard.

A valuable Journal, devoted to the elevation of the workingmen of the Union. It is conducted with signal ability.—Emporium, Ohio.

It is of that class whose intrinsic value is beyond all calculation.—Rep. Standard, Pa.

DR. MORSE'S INVIGORATING ELIXIER OR CORDIAL.

Cure of Nervous Diseases,

No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the diseased, debilitated, and shattered nervous system. Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once restored, revivified, and built up. The mental and physical symptoms of nervous disease vanish together under its influence. The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man. He stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom, or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright, buoyant, active, and he goes forth refreshed, regenerated, and conscious of new vigor, to his accustomed occupations. Nor is the effect temporary. On the contrary, the relief is permanent, for the cordial properties of the medicine reach the constitution itself, and restore it to its normal condition. Well may the preparation be called the MEDICINAL WONDER of the nineteenth century. It is, as the first scientific men in the old world have admitted, that miracle of medicine heretofore supposed to have no existence.

Its force is never expended, as is the case with opium, alcoholic preparations, and all other excitants. The effect of these is brief, and it may well be said of him who takes them, 'the last state of that man is worse than the first.' But the Elixir is an exhilarant without a single drawback, safe in its operation perpetual in its happy influence upon the nerves, the mind, and the entire system. In cases of neuralgia, headache, loss of memory, hypochondriasis, dyspepsia, general prostration, irritability, nervousness, inability to sleep, liver complaint, and all diseases incident to females, hysteria, monomania, vague terrors, palpitation of the heart, impotency, barrenness, constipation, etc., from whatever cause arising, it is if there is any reliance to be placed on human testimony, absolutely infallible.

It is the only infallible remedy yet discovered for Nervous, Head, and Mind Complaints; it is the mental physic long sought for, and never before found, the only natural agent that can administer to a mind diseased. It will increase and restore the appetite, strengthen the emaciated, renew the health of those who have destroyed it, induce continual cheerfulness and equanimity of spirits, and prolong life.

Persons of pale complexion or consumptive habits are restored by the use of a bottle or two to bloom and vigor, changing the skin from a pale, yellow, sickly color to a beautiful florid complexion.

The common expression of those who have used this extract is—I have heard your Cordial highly spoken of but was one of the incredulous in regard to its merit, having tried various medicines sold for the same purpose without deriving any benefit. I had almost given up all hopes of deriving any relief, and when I purchased some of your Cordial I had no faith whatever of its benefitting me, but it has.

PROSPECTUS FOR 1853
THE SATURDAY EVENING POST.
THE LEADING LITERARY WEEKLY

Over Thirty-one years have elapsed since the Saturday Evening Post began its weekly round of blended instruction and amusement: and never, in all that period, was its success so marked as at the present moment. Possessing undeniably the largest circulation, by many thousands, of any paper of its class in the Union; its subscribers have the best of reasons for believing that it stands upon a permanent basis, and that they will receive the full value of every dollar intrusted to its publishers. In announcing some of our preparations for the coming year, we may begin by stating our continued connection with Mrs. Southworth, a writer who, in vigor and fertility of genius, is not surpassed by any, male or female, in the Union. Mrs. Caroline Lee Hentz, a lady whom it would be almost superfluous to praise, in view of the general popularity of such tales as 'The Mob Cap,' 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc. also is enrolled among our contributors

We shall shortly begin the publication of a story entitled

CLARA MORELAND,

By Emerson Bennett, author of 'Viola,' 'Prairie Flower,' 'Bandits of the Osage,' etc. And at the opening of the ensuing year we design commencing the publication of the following Novelet,

MISS THUSA'S SPINNING-WHEEL,

By Mrs. Lee Hentz, of Florida, author of 'Eoline,' 'Linda,' 'Rena,' etc

This novelet we design following by a story entitled,

A STRAY PATCH FROM AUNT HANNAH'S QUILT.

By Mrs. Frances D. Gage, of Ohio, widely known as the author of some admirably written and very effective household poems, sketches, etc. After this we expect to be able to commence

THE LOST HEIRESS:
A STORY OF HOWLET HALL.

By Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth, author of 'The Curse of Clifton,' 'Virginia and Magdalene,' 'Shannondale,' the Deserted Wife,

In addition to these and other Original tales, involving a large expenditure of money we shall lay before our readers as heretofore choice tales, sketches, essays, narratives, etc. from the English magazines, such as have given the Post a name for the excellence of its selections.

Engravings—In the way of engravings we present at least two weekly, one of an instructive and the other of a humorous character,

Advertisements of an improper character shall be, as heretofore, rigorously excluded.
